ORISSA

Past and Future

Mahatma Gandhi came for the first time to Orissa in 1921 and was appalled to see its poverty. it was Orissa which first indicated to him and other Indian leaders that welfare and development activities were to be the first consideration of a modern State. In the past, it had told Asoka that not war and conquests and a thirst for blood, but peace and prosperity of the people, were what the king should strive for.

Orissa has been a land of peace. It was the first meeting ground of pre Aryan and Aryan cultures. In Orissa, evolved a synthesis of the two cultures, which synthesis is symbolised in the cult of Jagannath. Waves of dynasties from the north and the south have rushed through successive centuries into Orissa and have got assimilated into a nation of men, great in art and literature. These men have left imperishable marks in history, in the caves of Khandagiri, the temples of Bhubaneswar—the city of temples, the Black Pagoda of Konarak and the Great Jagannath Temple of Puri.

This small State, which is still struggling to keep its head above water, bids fair to rise again to its prestine glory. The Hirakud and Dudume projects are rapidly taking shape, new minerals are being unearthed every year and industries are being slowly but steadily established, while everything possible is being done to develop its manpower.

The figures and statistics given in this book will tell their own tale.

A five-year Road programme amounting to Rs. 2 crores for development of roads has been drawn up. This programme includes the ex-State areas and it is so planned as to give a well balanced road system to the State. The roads are so adjusted as to bring most villages (including villages of the backward classes and scheduled tribes) reasonably close to a planned system of all-weather roads. The schemes are being put into execution according to their urgency and availability of funds.

Facts worth knowing about the New Capital

Bhubaneswar has been selected as the New Capital of Orissa. The foundation stone of the New Capital was laid by the Prime Minister of India on the [illegible]th April 1948. A sum of nearly 5 crores of rupees was [illegible] the construction. The New Capital is being constructed according to the Master Plan drawn up by Dr. Koenigsberger, expert of the Government of India and a well known architect. Under this plan the town is to consist of five neighbourhood units each of which is self-contained so far as educational and other amenities such as shopping centres, dispensaries, play-grounds and centres of entertainment, etc., are [illegible] of artery road, subartery road, by-pass, [illegible] streets and lanes between quarters.

Water supply — On the advice of geological experts 2 trial bore holes were sunk at two different places in the vicinity of the Capital town on an experimental basis but were found to be unsuccessful. Government have therefore now finally decided to take the water supply from the Kushbai river from a site at a distance of about 4 miles. Pending the final working of the permanent water supply, temporary supply has been given to the present [illegible] from spring tanks after proper [illegible]. The supply is being made through stand-posts near the residential quarters.

Drainage and Sanitary Installations—The sewage [illegible] is proposed to be utilised for irrigation of lands. A good deal of jungle lands [illegible] proposed site for sewage purification [illegible] which is available which can be reclaimed and put under cultivation as far as

LAKES IN THE STATE

The Chilka Lake

The Chilka Lake is a shallow inland sea situated in the extreme south of the Puri district and extending further also into the district of Ganjam. It is separated from the Bay of Bengal by a group of islands formed by silt-deposit and by a long strip of land, which for mile consists of nothing but a sandy ridge, little more than two hundred yards wide. It communicated with the Bay by a narrow inlet through the sandy bar thrown up by the sea - an inlet which in some years has to be kept open by artificial means. On the south-west, it is walled in by lofty hills, in some places descending abruptly to the water's edge and in others thrusting out arms and promontories of rock into the lake. To the north, it loses itself in endless shallows, sedgy banks, and islands just peeping above the surface formed year by year from the silt Minister at its head. The Council of Ministers is collectively responsible to the House of the People.

Parliament

The Central Legislature is known as Parliament. It consists of two Houses—the Council of States and the House of the People. The Council of States is a permanent body elected indirectly. One third of its members retire every second year. It has a maximum strength of 250 members. The House of the People consists of not more than 500 elected members and its life does not ordinarily exceed 5 years.

State Governments

Except in the centrally administered States, the executive authority of a State is vested in the Governor or the Rajpramukh, as the case may be. The Council of Ministers, with the Chief Minister as its leader, aids and advises him
